THETA DELTA CHI

The year 1954-55 saw the pledging of ten new men in September, and the passing of five "old men" seniors; three seniors, John Stem, Tom Doherty, and Tom Marlow, saw fit to take a shot at senility with a fifth year at the Institute.

President John Stem and Treasurer Ron Lieber acquitted themselves with finesse, and Gil Strang, when not occupied with winning Rhodes scholarships, served a stewardship that compared favorably with mother's. Dan Myers, in his official capacity of Social Chairman served up a number of successful blasts, including the annual Christmas urchin's party, masquerade party, and Outhouse orgy; unofficially, Dan became affianced to Miss Corky Fuller.

Among more active extra-curricular participators were: "Canuck" Marlow, who manned the Judcomm chair; Tom Doherty, the Tech Show impressario; Ted Chleboski, A.S.M.E. secretary; Gene Bloch, Tech Show music manager; George Brown, shutterbug for Technique; and Bruce Wilson and Don Sipos who swam for the freshmen.

T.D. Chi teams were present at the field for intramural softball, football, basketball, and badminton. The record, unfortunately, speaks for itself.

Despite a noticeable lack of brass bands or fireworks, the year, as a whole, can be called a satisfying one. High hopes we are led to for next year.

The poor girl thinks she can hold a candle to Tom Marlow.

Whaddya know—they wear fraternity pins in Paris too!

Looks like Leon is the only one who can't make up his mind.

Norm Peterson seems to think that the milk-fed baby is passe.
